

Arathans

Arathans are a race descended directly from dragons, and as such are specifically draconic in nature. They are generally a proud and religious people, and claim to be the oldest species as their records of history reach back far longer than any other species history.

They attempted to colonize the Lycian people, but after a long and bitter war with the Lupine people, eventually peace was made and tenuous relations formed between Arathans and Lycians.
