

Scattered personal notebook of Logan

"Ironically for how large an event it was, I was barely there to witness it! Sothe whisked me and Jackson away to safety just as it was started, then I end up waking up in a whole new place months later! Who knows what I missed in that time?

I had only just begun exploring the old world; had yet to do much or make a name for myself, this new world is just as full as opportunity as any other!"
